Directive is without prejudice to provisions included in bilateral agreements, the social security rights enjoyed by third country national intra-corporate transferees on the basis of a bilateral agreement concluded between the Member State to which the person has been admitted and his or her country of origin could be strengthened compared to the social security rights which would be granted to the transferee under national law. This Directive should not confer more rights than those already provided for in existing Union legislation in the field of social security for third-country nationals who have cross-border interests between Member States.

corporate transferees. Particular attention should be paid to ensuring equal treatment as regards social security under national law in respect of those branches of social security defined in Article 3 of Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 April 2004 on the coordination of social security systems. Without prejudice to bilateral agreements providing better social security coverage, this Directive should establish mechanisms which ensure the effective coverage under social security during the stay and the mechanisms for exporting acquired rights where applicable. Any restrictions to the equal treatment in the field of social security under this Directive should be without prejudice to the rights conferred in application of Regulation (EU) No1231/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 November

Directive does not harmonise the social security legislation of Member States. It is limited to applying the principle of equal treatment in the field of social security to the persons falling under its personal scope. The right to equal treatment in the field of social security applies to third-country nationals who fulfil the objective and nondiscriminatory conditions laid down by the legislation of the host Member State with regard to affiliation and entitlement to social security benefits. In many Member States the right to family benefits is conditional upon a certain attachment to that Member State since the benefits are designed to support a positive demographic development in order to secure the future work force in that Member State. Therefore, this Directive does not affect the right of Member States to restrict equal treatment in respect of family benefits as the intra-corporate transferee and the accompanying family are staying temporarily in a Member State. Since this Directive is without prejudice to provisions included in bilateral agreements, the social security rights enjoyed by third country national intra-corporate transferees on the basis of a bilateral agreement concluded between the Member State to which the person has been admitted and his or her country of origin could be strengthened compared to the social security rights which would be granted to the transferee under national law. This Directive should not confer more rights than those already provided for in existing Union legislation in the field of social security for third-country nationals who have cross-border interests between Member States. It should be granted without prejudice to provisions in national legislation and/or

EP finds that the latter should be reviewed as it has been interpreted to provide for minimum rules of protection only. In light of the Laval case, MS would not be able to require working conditions going beyond the minimum protective framework of a provision of services in accordance with Directive 96/71/EC.	AM 32			96/71/EC. However, EP is not against excluding EU posted workers from the scope of the ICT Directive and is considering the Council text for this provision.

EP excludes also those working for employment agencies, etc.  Presidency suggests to insist on the Council text.
